I was on the phone with Apple support and got promoted to supervisor when trying to move my wife from pixel 2 to iPhone XR. In short, the Move to iOS app needs to be updated before it connects to your Android 9 device. Because older versions of Android can't see backups from newer versions of Android, you're basically stuck waiting for Apple to update its app, using a rotated third-party download app (you wouldn't do so), manually backing things up on your PC, or just without. I see you're trying to move content from Android to iPhone, but they're running into some problems. I'm happy to help! First, make sure to follow the steps in Move from Android to iPhone, iPad or iPod touch - Apple Support . If you are, go to the bottom of the same article and see if you need help with downloading, which provides the following troubleshooting: If you're having trouble moving content, there are a few things you can check: Make sure you leave both devices alone until the download is complete. For example, on your Android device, the Move to iOS app should remain on the screen at all times. If you're using another app or call your android phone before the download ends, the content won't download. On your Android device, turn off apps or settings that might affect Wi-Fi, such as sprint connection optimizer or a smart network switch. Then search for Wi-Fi in settings, tap and hold every known network, and forget about the network. Then try downloading again. Restart both devices and try again. Then try downloading again. Best! If you have an Android 9.0 backup device in addition to your Android 9.0 device, do the following:1) download SMS Backup from the Play Store on your Android 9 device. Back up texts, phone calls, and pictures to your Google drive. 2) Back up any other images or things you might want on a Google drive. 3) be on an android device that has Android 8 or older (I think android 6 or older could be TOOSTAR). Download SMS Backup on this older device and restore texts and calls to google drive. You need to take this step because SMS backup isn't available on your iPhone. It's the only way to get messages and calls to an iPhone. 4) follow the instructions Move to iOS on an older Android phone, now you should allow download to your iPhone because it's not Android. 5) download google drive on iPhone and grab everything that was missing. I hope this will help. Tried to switch from Pixel 2 to iPhoneX and failed to connect every time. We found an older galaxy, followed the steps you set out and it worked! There's obviously something in newer Android that makes the app fail. Thanks!
